

Trial Adviser Terms & Conditions

Visitors to this site are advised to seek professional diagnosis and treatment for any medical condition, and to discuss information obtained from this website with their healthcare provider. The information provided by TrialAdviser is for informational and educational purposes only and not intended to be a substitute for professional medical advice, diagnosis, or treatment. Medical knowledge is constantly growing and changing and differences of medical opinion exist among authorities. In view of that, and the possibility of human error, users are advised to confirm the information on the TrialAdviser site with their health care provider.

TrialAdviser does not recommend or endorse any specific tests, products, procedures, treatments, opinions, or other information that may be mentioned, discussed, or described on its website. TrialAdviser does not assume any responsibility for inaccuracies or omissions resulting from information obtained from this site. TrialAdviser will not be liable for any direct, consequential, or incidental damages, whether foreseeable or not, that may result from the unavailability or malfunctioning of our website. TrialAdviser makes no warranty that it will meet your requirements or that your use of the site will be uninterrupted, timely, or error free; nor does TrialAdviser make any warranty as to the results that may be obtained from the use of the website. Users should also note that TrialAdviser does not guarantee the accuracy of content links to external Internet sites not published or maintained by it.

You may Contact Us by the link on the www.trialadviser.com website if you have questions about our Terms & Conditions. Visitors who send a contact request can usually expect a response within 5 business days.

If you are experiencing a medical emergency, please call your local Emergency Service..

Revised: Jun 16, 2016